- 7 The managers of Wadia Mfg. Ltd. realised that the level of morale and motivation of their employees was very low and that there was dissatisfaction among the employees. Labour productivity was also found to be very low. After investigating the causes of dissatisfaction, the managers decided that if employees were to be motivated, there was a need to establish and maintain good interpersonal relations, over and above good salary, job security, proper working conditions and supervision. So they put in sincere efforts to improve all these factors during one year. Yet, surprisingly they came to know that inspite of reduction in the degree of dissatisfaction, the level of morale and motivation was low and there was no significant increase in their productivity, therefore, the managers are worried. 10

What managerial problem is involved in the above case? Suggest solution and with the help of arguments justify your answer.
